

Further to the reply to P.U.B. 13.1 for the customer growth of residential customer additions:

Q. If new customers were all encouraged to heat their homes with other than electric heat, what would be the savings to the system on energy sales, peak demand and the requirements for new equipment.

A. The Company has not completed an analysis of savings related to energy sales, peak demand and requirements for new equipment if new customers were encouraged to heat their homes with other than electric heat.
