

1 Q. Please confirm that cryptocurrency customers would not be considered Industrial Customers
2 under the proposed definition and provide the distinction between an Industrial Customer and a
3 cryptocurrency customer.

4

5

6 A. Newfoundland and Labrador Hydro (“Hydro”) confirms that cryptocurrency customers would
7 not be considered Industrial Customers under the proposed definition in the Labrador
8 Interconnected System Network Additions Policy. The proposed definition is:

9

10 “Industrial Customer means a Customer in Labrador who is served at Transmission Voltage;
11 whose Peak Demand is 5,000 kW or more; and whose line of business is principally related to 12 Industrial Development.”

13

14 Industrial Development is then defined as: “. . . all actions involved in the manufacture,
15 assembly or processing of tangible merchandise, or the extraction or processing of raw 16 materials.”

17

18 Cryptocurrency customers do not manufacture, assemble, or process tangible merchandise, nor 19 do they extract or process raw materials.