8 A. Six bedrooms are required to house enough workers to perform typical annual 9 maintenance activities. The only Canadian written standards are Alberta and British 10 Columbia provincial standards. Both of these standards state that workers “shall be 11 provided with a single room of not less than eighty (80) square feet”.

13 Hydro also compared the occupancy of modern accommodations at other work
14 sites in Newfoundland and Labrador including Muskrat Falls, Bull Arm, and Long 15 Harbour.
