Volume 2: Cost of Capital: Expert Opinion of James Coyne- Capital Structure and Risk Profile

Q. Please confirm that C&T's betas are based on weekly data and that such estimates are often regarded as biased due to thin-trading problems. Please indicate whether C&T are aware of any published academic research that analyzes this "intervalling" effect that for relatively high valued firms like utilities the betas are biased high the shorter the interval they are estimated over, for example, weekly, rather than monthly.

 A. Concentric confirms that the Beta coefficients from Bloomberg and Value Line are based on weekly data. However, Concentric does not regard such estimates as biased due to low volume trading. The companies in Concentric's Canadian, U.S. Electric, and North American Electric proxy groups are large electric and gas utilities with substantial trading volume on a daily basis. There is no lack of liquidity for investors in the shares of these companies. The tables below provide the average daily trading volume in shares for the companies in Concentric's Canadian and U.S. proxy groups, based on data from Yahoo Finance as of February 18, 2024.
